

The International Labor Organization celebrates World Day for Safety and Health at Work on April 28

On April 28, the International Labor Organization celebrates World Day for Safety at Work.

In 2022, the theme of the World Day for Safety and Health at Work is "Together to create a positive culture of safety at work".

Having a sound health and safety system in place, with the active participation of governments, employers, workers, health authorities and all stakeholders at the national and enterprise levels, is essential to maintaining good working conditions and ensuring the safety and health of workers.

In the workplace, a high safety culture is one in which the right to a safe and healthy work environment is valued and encouraged by both management and employees.

In general, today all over the world the issue of safety at work is perceived as one of the most important topics in the world of work. The main thesis is that decent work should be safe.
